Controversy stirs over 'mayor's office'

ALBANY — Proposed creation of a "mayor's office" from an existing 11x12 foot storage room in the Albany City Hall is stirring a new controversy.

Councilman Lewis Howell calls it "ridiculous."

Mayor Joyce Jackson calls it "necessary."

Councilman Mike Gleason called for a cost estimate at last week's council meeting, although City Administrator James Turner said it could be handled within the present city budget.

Actually, the converted room would be "for the use of the mayor and the council, meeting with constituents, and would serve as an additional meeting room," Turner said, terming it "joint use."

Howell declared that the functions of the mayor are not so great as to justify allotting a separate room for that purpose, adding that there are already several conference rooms for council and public use.

This includes, he said, conference rooms in the engineer's office, the administrator's office and behind the City Council Chambers.

The room in question is located in the northeast portion of the City Hall, with the treasurer's office on one side and the Police Department on the other.

The change is only a small part of an overall reorganization of the building since the County Health Department offices moved out.

Administrator Turner has already moved his offices into the vacated Health Department offices in the south portion of the building. Other offices including clerk and treasurer are being relocated to allow for better emplacement of equipment.

But council attention seems riveted on the storage room.

Mayor Jackson called it a "multi-use room . . . for staff, council and mayor."

She said, "Many citizens want to talk with me personally, and I have been meeting with them in whatever space has been available. We need the additional space."

To Howell's objections, that a separate room for mayor and council increases the risk of violating the Brown Act, Mayor Jackson replied that she and other council members have talked in private in the past without violating the law by discussing city business. This, she indicated, would be the case in the future.

Howell countered that the City Hall is not large enough and there are other civic groups in the city which should be allowed to have space there, if available.

Mayor Jackson replied that the room would be a "multi-use" room, with . . . all of the citizens of the community using it . . .

Howell's seemed to lose his point that the city charter limits the functions of the mayor as "executive head of the city" to times of "rebellion and insurrection." City Attorney Larry Saler read the pertinent portion of the document which indicated the mayor is the "executive head" of the city at all times.

DR. AND MRS. WARD TABLER PLAN TO SHARE THANKSGIVING with the "old and alone" . . . hope others will too

Thanksgiving — A meal to be shared

By JEAN JERNIGAN
I-G Staff Writer

BERKELEY — "Old and alone," is a phrase, which sadly, has become applicable to a large segment of the population. To be old, alone, and forgotten on holidays, is to know loneliness in its most hurtful state, a state that causes many elderly persons to wonder why they continue to live on.

The loneliness of the elderly is well known to Barbara Tabler, Berkeley's "Singing Lady," who spends many hours as music therapist, friend, and companion to the elderly in resident care homes and convalescent hospitals.

Nearly a decade ago, Mrs. Tabler and her husband, Ward, determined to replace loneliness with love, sadness with joy, emptiness with companionship, on at least one holiday of the year for as many old and alone men and women as they could manage. They chose Thanksgiving as their day to dispel loneliness, contacted hospitals and homes, and invited a number of oldsters to share the family feast in the Tabler home.

Their guests that Thanksgiving, back in 1967, had a happy glow as they sat around the table, and in their eyes was the spark of renewed interest in life, Dr. Ward recalled. The entire day brought such obvious happiness to their guests, and the Tablers have continued to share their Thanksgiving with lonely ones every year since.

"Last year we had 20 guests who otherwise would have been 'old and alone' on Thanksgiving," Mrs. Tabler said. "However, no one needs to undertake having so many, even if a person invites only one or two people, it would be a wonderful thing. We hope that many Berkeley families this year will include one or more lonely oldster."

"Any family interested in sharing its Thanksgiving can turn to the Yellow Pages in the phone book for listings of resident care homes, convalescent hospitals. A phone call is the first step toward making someone's Thanksgiving a happy one."

Naturally, these elderly guests need transportation to their (Turn to Page 5 Col. 1)

Albany's total taxes rank sixth in county

ALBANY — The overall property tax rate paid by Albany residents for special districts, education and local governments ranks sixth among the 16 communities of Alameda County.

Albany's total tax rate is $12.885 per $100 assessed valuation.

Berkeley's total tax rate is tops at $15.779 per $100 assessed valuation, while Emeryville residents boast the lowest at $9.325 per $100 assessed valuation.

In Albany, as in other Alameda County communities, the largest part of the tax rate goes toward education. The amount levied by the Albany Unified School District is $6.134.

In a newsette distributed by the City of Albany last month it was erroneously reported that the school district's tax rate was $7.190.

According to Administrative Officer James Turner, the chart incorrectly included miscellaneous education taxes charged by the county and other education districts with the ASUD rate.

The City of Albany's tax rate is $2.04 of which $0.90 goes toward the general fund, $0.43 to the park and recreation fund, $0.64 to the pension fund and $0.07 to buildings.

As in previous years the tax bill residents receive from the county will include the city's tax rate and no separate billings by the city will be made. All property taxes must be paid to the County Tax Collector.

Property taxes fund about 21 percent of the city's budget. Other sources of revenue include: federal and

Saler overrules conflict charges

ALBANY — Conflict of interest accusations against two city councilmen who voted city support for Christmas decorations have been overruled by the city attorney.

Citizen Dario Meniketti last week made the accusations after Councilmen Lewis Howell and Robert Luoma voted with the rest of the council in favor of a contract with the Albany Chamber of Commerce.

The contract is the first since the city adopted a new policy of allotting money to the chamber only on a project-by-project basis. It would provide about $800 in city funds for Christmas decorations on the major commercial streets.

Meniketti said that Howell and Luoma were both members of the chamber and therefore not qualified to vote on the basis of "conflict of interest." His objections were made after the council voted 4-0 in favor, with Vice Mayor Pat Griffin absent.

However, City Attorney Larry Saler offered his opinion that there is a conflict of interest only if the voting council members stood to gain financially from their vote.

No evidence was offered that either Howell or Luoma would benefit directly from their votes.

However, Meniketti wasn't finished. He also objected to spending the city funds for Christmas decorations since that amount, " . . . would fill a lot of Christmas stockings of the needy poor."

He also asked if the chamber were also providing funds. Hal Denham, chamber manager, replied that his organization is providing " . . . thinking, planning and a lot of work."

Meniketti also told the council that the Chamber should be asked to persuade many of the local merchants to clean up their premises which he termed, " . . . from dirty to filthy."

Howell asked Meniketti, "Who appointed you the building inspector?" But (Turn to Page 4, Col. 3)

Albany doctor loses license over laetrile

ALBANY — An Albany physician who gave his patients laetrile as a cure for cancer had his license to practice medicine revoked.

Dr. John A. Richardson will lose his license by order of the Medical Quality Assurance Board. The decision came after seven days of hearings in August before Administrative Law Judge Stewart A. Judson.

The board's decision to lift Richardson's license is based on nine known cases in which he gave patients laetrile, a substance described as "an extreme departure" from the standard practice of medical care.

In one case an undercover agent was given laetrile after he told a receptionist at Richardson's office he had cancer. In fact, the undercover man was in perfect health.

Of the nine case histories cited before the judge and board, two are dead and two (Turn to Page 2, Col. 8)

Sales, use taxes issued for month

SACRAMENTO — The City of Albany will receive $43,000 as its share of the $113.6 million being distributed to cities and counties in the November allocation of local sales and use tax funds.

The distribution is the third in the 1976 third quarter, most of it coming from the Bradley-Burns one percent sales and use tax to cities and counties.

Other nearby cities receiving funds include Berkeley, $374,000; Emeryville, $82,500; and El Cerrito, $110,000. Alameda County will receive $550,000 from the sales and use tax funds and $1,125,000 from the one-fourth percent local transportation fund. According to William M. Bennett, chairman of the State Board of Equalization, cities will receive more than $73.8 million, counties in excess of $13.1 million, for a total of $87 million. Counties also will receive $21.75 million from the one-fourth percent local sales and use tax for the county local transportation fund.

The San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District will get $4.85 million from the additional half percent sales tax paid in Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco counties.

STEVE GARDNER

Student of the month

ALBANY — Organization is the key to Steve Gardner's success in school. The busy senior, chosen as McDonald's first student of the month from Albany High School, juggles a heavy scholastic schedule, a 20-hour a week job, and several extra-curricular activities.

"In ninth grade, I got concerned about my future," Steve said, "and I decided that I'd better organize myself so I could get things done."

His success is shown in a 3.4 (B plus) grade average. He works in two or three hours a night of study between school and his job at Albany Hospital.

Somewhat, Steve also finds time to handle such positions as editor of the school yearbook and chairman of the recent Homecoming festivities.

In what spare time he has, Steve enjoys movies, tennis, and swimming. He's been a member of the City of Albany swim team for the past three years.

After graduation, Steve hopes to attend San Francisco State. He plans to become an optometrist.

Ride BART for 30 cents

Also, excursion rides around the system will cost no more than 30 cents. In order to take advantage of the excursion opportunity, riders must return to the station they entered without exiting anywhere else on the system.

Four year olds, and under, ride free regardless of what type of ride is taken.

Thanksgiving is just around the corner, which brings to mind a quick thought: why turkey? Of course the illustrious bird is one of several that aren't migratory and would be around for easy pickings this time of year. But quails are edible and nonmigratory too.
The answer came from Albany's one and only Animal Control Officer John Sawers, who answered in his inimitable style: "If you were a housewife with a bunch of guests coming over, what would you prepare? A hundred itty-bitty quails or one huge turkey?"
Thank you, John. I think I got the point.

Albany Soroptimist Toni Stallone recently returned from a trip to New Zealand, Australia and the South Pacific and who did she bump into, but Joey Vila, a native of Albany and son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Vila.
Joey, according to Toni, lives in Queenstown, New Zealand, owns a successful hog farm, dabbles actively in civic affairs, stars on the town's basketball team and still finds time to organize a baseball team for the merchants and businesses.
Joey's farm is nestled on the banks of a river and when his chores are done, he fishes for trout, said Toni, who also noted he hasn't forgotten his friends back home. He sent his regards.
Toni, meanwhile, also witnessed the march of the penguins on Phillips Island, 100 miles southwest of Melbourne, Australia. "It was like watching a parade of soldiers," she said. "As soon as it was dark hundreds of penguins came to shore and marched single file up the beach to their nests with food for the young ones."
Well, after seeing all those penguins and pigs, Toni now has to put up with turkeys.

Also back from a trip, east this time, are Jerry Brand and wife, Muriel, David Robinson and wife, Betty, Bob Rogers, Margaret Johns Reynolds and husband, Jim, and Victor Stachura and wife, Irene. Jerry, David, Bob, Margaret and Victor, all local realtors, were attending the annual convention of the 500,000-member National Association of Realtors in Houston, Tex.
Everyone knows they do things big in Texas, but 500,000 is a bit too much to fit in one city. It's a good thing only 14,000 showed up.
Got word that local boy Ross Gershenson will be doing his senior recital at Cal State Hayward next Monday and will be accompanied by sister, Susan, and his fiancée Lynn Lechtaler.
However, the recital will have added significance. Ross has decided to dedicate it to former Albany High School band member John Knight who died over the July 4th weekend.

Our congrats to Albany resident Bruce Carlson of Sonoma Street. Bruce is one of 31 students who have been picked to participate in the 1976-77 international programs of the California State Universities and Colleges. Bruce's studies will take him to the National Chengchi University in the Republic of China.

Thought we'd give May Ellis-Olson a helping hand here in thanking all the neighbors and friends who sent her gifts, cards and plants when she was in the hospital a while back. She was swamped with more than 200 of 'em.
Said May, "I haven't got my old zip back, but I'm moving around fine."
Quick reminder... Kains Avenue resident Loreta Davis has alerted us to the fact that her friend, Bessie's Cafe owner Olivia Black, is celebrating her 14th year of business in Albany.
May we be so reminded again on the 15th...
And then there are population booms... Loraine Burton has joined Cerrito de Oro Parlor No. 400, Native Daughters of the Golden West... Mel Myers has been added to the den of the Albany Lions Club... And the Albany Rotary Club is still spinning with the addition of new members, David A. Nichols, manager of Fidelity Savings and Loan on Milano Avenue, and Charles McCully, superintendent of the Albany Unified School District.

CONFLICT

Mayor Joyce Jackson replied that all citizens are encouraged to make statements about the city.

Denham described the Christmas lighting to be erected with the funds, including the trimming of 150 light poles and erection of a holiday tree at Solano and Key Route, also an overhead display at Solano and San Pablo.

Denham noted that in past years, up to $2,500 has been spent on holiday decorations.

The motion approving the funding was made by Luoma, seconded by Howell, with all approving.

The contract will relieve the city of liability in the event of a lawsuit involving the decorations, their erection or dismantling.

SHARING THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving Day "family's" home, and the Tablers have borrowed station wagons, cars and buses at one time or another. Last year, Mrs. Tabler remembers, the transportation was unforgettable and humorous.

"We borrowed one of Planned Parenthood's mobile clinic buses," she said, "and I will never forget the congruity of those little old ladies climbing down out of that bus."

Mrs. Tabler says she keeps the Thanksgiving menu traditional, but always includes a few extra special things, and some things that are really different. "I also make colorful gelatin salads," she said, "because that is something one doesn't usually get in institutional-type meals."

The Wards decorate the table with care, and bring forth the silver, glass, and special china. "Our guests enjoy looking almost as much, if not perhaps more, than they do eating. It is a pleasure for them to eat with utensils that are nice, and not plates that aren't worn and scratched from hard usage by large groups. The table decor, and pretty settings also give them something to talk about for days after."

Much more than just feasting goes into a Thanksgiving at the Tablers. "We try to do things that make good memories," Mrs. Tabler said. We sing together, I sing for them, and usually I read the old familiar poem about going to grandmother's house for Thanksgiving. Sometimes there are little gifts, something someone needs or wants, and not necessarily anything new."

"And don't forget," Dr. Ward joined in, "we do a lot of touching. These people really look forward to being touched with affection. Many of them never get touched unless it is a part of their routine physical care."

Mrs. Tabler added that whenever possible they invite the neighbors' children in for a visit. "A lot of these oldsters never see any children and the children bring them joy. A child to hug and be hugged by, to hold on one's lap, is a special treat for our guests."

Anticipating going out for Thanksgiving is almost as much fun as doing it, and many of the elderly begin talking about it two months before the day, according to Mrs. Tabler. "These people really get dressed up for the occasion, and spend a lot of time planning what they will wear. They ask for approval and attention," she said.

"Guests like to help," Dr. Tabler said, "and sometimes the results are not exactly what Barbara planned, but the mistakes usually bring laughter and the joy of doing something together."

It is the Tablers' hope that this year many other families will include a lonely older in the football, feasting, and gathering of the clans. "Old people like to be with younger ones," Mrs. Tabler said, "and even new young families, with or without a baby or two can give much happiness to the elderly."

"There is no need to make a big production, the guest or guests will be happy, just being in a private home, and knowing that someone cares."

Tennis area to expand

ALBANY — Expansion is the aim of pro Butch Foster and Total Tennis who have taken over operation of the tennis facility at Golden Gate Fields.

Foster, who has studied under Vic Braden, Dennis VanderMer and Eve Kraft, has been a teaching pro for 10 years. He and his staff is offering several forms of instruction aimed at developing and improving the skills of all tennis players from raw beginner to top tournament participants.

Included at the Golden Gate Fields Tennis Club are 10 cushioned asphalt composition courts, a locker room, clubhouse and pro shop. Full windscreens have been installed on all courts to reduce the impact of breezes coming off nearby San Francisco Bay.

Other Albany finishers included Jimmy Thieband, 17th, with a time of 8:52; Paul Yi, 21st, with a time of 9:18; and Chris Crume, 22nd, with a time of 11:06.

Foster said full privileges of the Golden Gate Fields Tennis Club are offered to all members. Single monthly memberships are $10 while family memberships are $15 per month.
